WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Executive clemency was denied Thursday to Albert B. Attorney General Mitchell announced that the application for clemency would not be granted by President Hoover because none of the three judges and prosecutors whose opinions were asked on the petition had advised clemency for Mr. Fall.

Searing of Youth Halted By Police

Aged Couple Held at Yonkers, N. Y., as Cult Fanatics

YONKERS, N. Y.—A religious cult whose devotees seared Joseph Martello, 17, and other youthful victims and laid them as burnt offerings before an altar, according to police, was discovered here Wednesday with the arrest of an aged couple in Yonkers.

Chief Edward Quirk, who is investigating the cult, said complaints were received from neighbors that the Martello youth screamed for hours nightly while "services" were going on in the apartment of Carmello Zemo, 2.

Detectives crashed into the apartment where they found Zemo and his wife, Giovanni, 78, before a candle-lit altar covered with weird symbols. Nearby, the youth lay, his back and shoulders covered with sears left by burns.

Pending a mental and physical examination of the boy, whose home is in Jersey City, and a round-up of fanatics who, police say, visited the apartment the aged couple were held on charges of disorderly conduct for a hearing next Wednesday.

Equalization Fee Is Urged by Farm Bureau

MADISON, Wis.—(AP)—The American Farm Bureau Federation, through its president, Edward A. O'Neal, Wednesday had declared present farm legislation inadequate and announced its return to the principle of the equalization fee.

"It now appears all too plain that the present act does not adequately provide for the needed control of surpluses. Consequently, we must renew our demand for enactment of this type of legislation in order to strengthen and preserve the farmer owned and farmer controlled marketing associations that have been established."

State Librarian Reports Busy July

Many Rural Communities Borrow Books for Summer Reading

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Although it was vacation time for students, July proved to be a busy month for the library of the State Department of Education.

Miss Christine Sanders, librarian, said 968 books went out from the department's library to persons who otherwise would have missed the opportunity to enjoy good books. They represented 140 families.

Miss Sanders said the packages contained a wide variety of reading matter. Some requests were for biography or travel, others for psychology and science, and others for gardening, home making, the care of children, as well as fiction, mystery and adventure.

Thirteen schools, eight of them borrowing for the first time, received 321 volumes.

Miss Sanders said two rural schools will install libraries during August.

Park Being Built at Arkansas Post

Much Improvement Has Been Done This Year Is Report

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Arkansas Post, historic ancient garrison on the Arkansas river six miles south of Gillett, has been transformed into a place of beauty.

J. W. Burnett of DeWitt, chairman of the Arkansas Post Park Commission, has reported to Dallas Herndon, secretary of the Arkansas History Commission, that much work of beautification already has been accomplished with the appropriation made by the 1931 legislature.

This includes landscaping and restoration and the creation of a lake of forty acres. A dam was built at a cost of about $100 to form a clear water lake for fishing, swimming and boating. The dam also is used as one of the highway entrances of the park. The park has been laid out, driveways and walks built, fences erected and trees set out. Mr. Burnett reported.

Through the efforts largely of Representative Ballard Deane of Arkansas county, the last legislature appropriated $5,000 for restoration and preservation of the historic site. Mr. Burnett, who is supervising the work, said only about half of the appropriation has been spent.

Farmers Asked to Plow Third of Crop By Federal Board

Governors of the Southern Cotton States Given Pleas by Board

TO REDUCE YIELD Program to Mean Total Reduction of Nearly 4,000,000 Bales

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Governors of the cotton states Thursday were charged by Chairman Stone and Carl Williams, cotton members of the federal farm board with direct responsibility in organizing a suggested campaign to destroy a third of the south's cotton to avert economic disaster. They said the financial salvation of the southern farmer depended on the attitude of the chief executives of the 14 cotton states to the proposal.

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The farm board Wednesday called on Southern planters to destroy one-third of their crop now under cultivation, promising in return to hold stabilization surplus stocks from the market for one year. Telegrams were dispatched to the governors of 14 cotton producing states, urging the most enlist the co-operation of every available agency, including farmers and bankers, in this dramatic step to increase the low price of cotton.

They were signed by Chairman Stone, who conferred Wednesday with directors of the cotton stabilization corporation and the American Cotton Co-operative Association. Stone said if the growers promised to plow under every third row of cotton now growing, the cotton co-operative would be asked also to withhold the 2,000,000 bales it owns from trade channels.

"This program," he asserted, "if fully carried out by Southern farmers as well as by ourselves will mean reduction of total supply by at least 4,000,000 bales and withholding from this year's market of 3,000,000 bales more."

The action followed by a few days a government crop forecast in which the 1931 cotton harvest was estimated at 15,584,000 bales, more than 1,500,000 above last year. Cotton prices on every exchange immediately dropped. A few hours before the telegram were sent, it was announced Alexander Legge, former chairman of the farm board, had been elected a director at large of the stabilization corporation. Wheat and cotton stabilization operations with the board's $500,000 revolving fund were initiated under his chairmanship and he has been in close touch with all details.

The proposal to plow under every third row of cotton was advanced Tuesday by Governor Bilbo of Mississippi.

Stone, in his telegrams to the governors of Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas, estimated the probable carry over a year from now under present conditions would be about 11,000,000 bales.

"This condition," he said, "occurs in spite of the 10 per cent reduction in acreage last spring. It has already resulted in drastic price declines in cotton prices which if allowed to continue may bring direct disaster to cotton producing states and indirect disaster to the nation."

The program would be put into effect September 1 and be completed September 15. The governors were urged to respond immediately stating their attitude on the proposal.

The suggestion was regarded here as the board's most important move since stabilization operations were attempted in 1929. At that time 1,300,000 bales of cotton were bought at an average price of $55 a bale in an effort to steady sagging prices.

Man Returns After 3 Years Absence

Rides Spirited Horse to Town, Acts as If He Had Just Left

PLANO, Ill.—(AP)—On the morning of April 13, 1928, Franz Dunbar killed his bride of two months, climbed into his automobile and vanished.

When nothing was heard from him, he was given up for dead until Saturday afternoon when he galloped down the main street of Plano on a spirited black horse. He wore a brilliant cowboy regalia, chaps, boots, spurs and a 10 gallon hat.

With a flourish he pulled up before the cigar store, tossed the reins over his steed's neck, stopped to buy a package of tobacco, and then rode out of town.

On the road east of Plano he met faintly. He glanced casually at her, his wife, Agnes. She shrieked and rode on to his father's farm.

His father, Robert Dunbar, was in the front yard.

"All the chores done, dad?" he asked.

His father said they were.

"Well, I guess I'll put my horse up, then," the prodigal replied, when upon he put the animal away and entered the house where he greeted his mother and younger brother as though as his father put it "he had left them but yesterday."

When his wife reached the farm he nodded pleasantly enough to her, but showed no particular interest in her presence and ignored her questions.

"Franz seems to act as though he hadn't been gone at all," his father said. "Whether he's lived a blank life these three years, or just doesn't want to talk about himself, I can't figure out. I don't know any more about it than anyone else."

Since his return Franz has declined to talk with his wife.

His only answer to questions as to where he has been, is:

"It's none of your business."

New Soda Fountain at Cox Drug Store

A new soda fountain is being installed by the John Cox Drug company at its Elm street store, to furnish the most modern service to this trade.

The old fountain was torn out early this week and the new one put in place Wednesday. Connections will be completed Thursday and the fountain put in service, with a formal opening to be announced later. The new counter combines both drink and ice cream compartments, cooled by a central electric refrigerating plant. Wicker-backed stools and a brass foot-rail will be a novel feature of the drink stand.

That story brought Billy 50,000 letters and postcards, including a treasured letter from John Coolidge, son of the former president.

Trouble seems to just keep on troubling Billy. Two months ago he bumped into a

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves
It takes only one bottle of Dr. J. S. Leonard's prescription—HEM-ROID—to end itching, bleeding, protruding piles. This internal remedy acts quickly even in old stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and restores the affected parts and removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and cutting fail. W-d & Son say HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile misery or money back—Adv.

Heart of Liane

by MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

LIANE HARTNETT, 18, and her mother, Mrs. H. H. Hartnett, were in the city to see the new movie, "The Heart of Liane," which is being shown at the Grand Theatre. Liane's mother, Mrs. H. H. Hartnett, is a well-known actress and has appeared in many of the best-known plays and movies. Liane is a beautiful girl and is a very popular actress. She is the daughter of a famous actor and is a very talented actress. She is the daughter of a famous actor and is a very talented actress. She is the daughter of a famous actor and is a very talented actress.

Against her will almost she read the words:

"Clive, darling: You were a sweet lamb to take care of all that for me and I never can thank you enough. What ever should I do without you? I shall see you on Tuesday and meet to hear that all our affairs are going nicely. Until then, I am always yours, TRESSA."

Liane stamped on small, sudden foot. "Clive, darling!" she cried. How dared she take that tone with Clive? She had no right. What did Tressa mean by "our affairs?"

As she came out of Clive's room the new housemaid trotted up the stairs. In housewife fashion Liane remarked on the state of the stairs and the carpet, the crisp paper of the snapshot crinkling under the soft stuff of her blouse. The letter she had left as she found it.

It was no surprise when Clive remarked next morning that he wondered if she would mind seeing Tressa out for a brief visit.

"She's practically out of funds," he admitted, with a laugh which sounded to Liane's suspicious ears embarrassed. "She's putting up at a hotel and I'm afraid it's a pretty expensive place. Not the sort of thing she's used to. I thought it might be the decent thing for us to do considering that Mother has always asked her to stay here when she's around."

"Of course," Liane agreed, masking her true feelings. "I'll write her at once." In his presence she gave orders to have the car come ready. She had not braced again the subject of their own affairs. Now she was afraid to do so. What if he actually agreed to a divorce and made plans to put it through with dispatch? The thought frightened Liane. Now that she faced the immediate possibility of losing Clive, she appreciated what he meant to her. She deserved, she assured herself, nothing better. For so long she had closed her eyes to his charm.

All that day, as she rode in the quiet lanes, as she ate her solitary lunch, she pondered the problem. There were several methods of procedure. She might stake everything on one bold throw. She might tell Clive what she knew and what she suspected of Tressa's earlier perfidy. She might ignore all that and give the other girl a battle on her own ground. The first plan she rejected. All was fair in love and war she knew, but she shrank from the notion of exposing her rival so shamelessly.

No. She would just have to take the chance of beating Tressa at this game. If only she hadn't provided Clive with an "out" by that suggestion last week that he might be better off free!

When Tressa arrived, bag and baggage, Liane forced herself to show a cordiality she did not feel. The other girl's greeting, while effusive, held a touch of wariness. Liane was quick to sense.

"She doesn't like me any better than I like her," the girl thought.

Saint Louis Cards Win Over Brooklyn

Victory in Double-Header Practically Clinches Pennant

The St. Louis Cardinals opened their last season of the East Wednesday with a double victory over Brooklyn, 5-0 and 8-5, practically clinching the National League pennant for the second consecutive year.

Upon the outcome of this road trip depends the Cardinals' World Series chances, and as Wednesday's pair of victories put the St. Louis team eight and a half games in front it's all over but the shouting. The Chicago Cubs won two games from the lowly Phillies, and the New York Giants split a double-header with Pittsburgh. The Cardinals met a tarantula in Brooklyn, and the Giants were up against the wrecker of champions when they met Pittsburgh.

In the American League, the Athletics again eased off, George Earnshaw being beaten by Detroit, 7 to 6. The big right-hander allowed 13 hits. George Uhle did no better, and the A's kicked him for 14 hits.

Washington went to pieces before the Chicago White Sox, being defeated 11 to 1. Boston whipped the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 0. The Yankees and Cleveland broke even in two games, New York winning the first 18 to 1, and Cleveland the nightcap 17 to 7.

Federal buildings costing $1,000,000 are to be erected in the lower Rio Grande valley of Texas.

Following an increase in tuition, Hardin College at Mexico, Mo., had more students on its rolls than before, get on the air.

Boxing Schedule at Summer Garden

Twenty Rounds Announced for Program Thursday Night at 8:30

Several good boxing bouts are scheduled at the Dixon Summer Garden on South Shover street Thursday night. These matches are sponsored by the Shover Street Athletic Association and fair sized crowds have been attending in the past few weeks.

The main event will be between Battling Hank, of Stamps, who weighs 175 and Larry Craighton 182 of Shreveport. They are scheduled to go 10 rounds.

Twenty rounds of boxing and a battle royal are scheduled for the evening.

Mexico Section Flooded Following Steady Rains

TAMPICO, Mexico.—(AP)—Tampico Tuesday was faced with evacuating its flooded low-lying districts and dispatching aid to thousands of refugees marooned in a vast inundated zone in Northern Vera Cruz and Southern Tamaulipas.

The few refugees from the interior who reached Tampico told of heavy loss of life in villages suddenly inundated when the rivers after two weeks of steady rain, left their course and spread out over the neighboring country.

More than half the 1,183,157 listed families in Michigan own radio receiving sets.

It is estimated in Chicago, constituting about 235,000 of the 300,000 population.

Indian game wardens made 211 arrests and got 161 convictions in June.

Hooks and Slides

Turning the Tide

It needs only a little thing sometimes to turn the tide. With the recent sensational sport of my dear St. Louis Browns, do you know what but the team on its muscle that way? I would say it was 19-year-old Wallace Hebert who stepped out of the bullpen and smacked down the Athletics twice. Hebert furnished the proof of the A's mortality. The rest of the Browns took the tip and played like champions.

Tunney, Collier

GENE TUNNEY can break 100, he proved during the Johnny Walker matches for newspapermen, a part of the program during the Hyder Cup matches at Columbus, O. He can even shoot 99, but who cares? Gene Tunney should have been one of the men in training for the world's heavyweight championship. Which one should he be—Schmeling or Striling?

If you were to ask me that question I would loudly answer, "Both!"

Innocent Bystander

THE public prints have been carrying a picture of Bobby Jones as a spectator at a golf tournament. Something like Gene Tunney watching the heavyweight championship fight in Cleveland. The moral seems to be: when you get good enough, quit.

Another Cobb?

"HES just another Ty Cobb; that's all," said Gabby Street the other day, looking upon George Watkins with a beaming eye.

The occasion: Vance was pitched. Twenty Cardinals had gone to bat and right back to the bench. Came Watkins. No. Just a lefty, the pesky old bunt that has been dug between the legs of a "babe" and a "bird" base. Vance dream was rudely shattered. The Cardinals got very close. George stole home with the old run that day. Street's fine words seem true.

Echo

THOSE National League notes met the attack of endorsed, the not actually which has resulted in close many games this season. Probably remember that the best and most prevailing against the funny ball from John McGraw's Wolf connection is that on this day that the manager was using the new not-so-level. The Giants were just being mugged by the Cubs by a score of 10 to 0.

Bowie Knife Owned by Steve Carrigan

J. Frank Dobie's article in last Sunday's Arkansas Gazette Magazine telling how James Black, a blacksmith at Washington, this county, fashioned the first Bowie knife for James Bowie a century ago, recalls the story of another famous knife made by the same blacksmith and now part of a collection owned by Steve Carrigan of this city, well known lawyer and formerly prosecuting attorney of this district.

The age of this Bowie knife is uncertain, but it was turned out by the Washington blacksmith not long after James Bowie established a forge for this weapon and made the Hempstead county smith "famous." It was made to the order of a man who soon afterward removed to Arkadelphia and there died, his effects being sold at public auction.

Only two men in the crowd at the auction recognized this as a genuine James Black Bowie knife. Bidding against each other at $1 a raise, they carried the price up to $100. The new owner later presented it to Augustus H. Garland, first Democratic governor of Arkansas after the constitution of 1874.

Garland later became United States senator. He gave the knife to his colleagues, James K. Jones, grandfather of Mr. Carrigan. Both Garland and Jones were natives of Washington, home of the famous Bowie knife blacksmith. Senator Jones passed the knife on to James K. Jones Jr., and it was from this maternal uncle that Mr. Carrigan obtained it.

Stories about James Black's Bowie knives are legion, but Mr. Carrigan recites two facts that are carried in the memory of Washington townsmen, told to them by Wathers and grandfathers: When Black finished a Bowie knife he would begin whittling on a hickory axe-handle, and if after two hours the knife wouldn't shave him he discarded it as unworthy of his famous shot. He sometimes demonstrated the temper of his steel by ramming a knife through a silver dollar—without turning the point.

Crushing Tests Guarantee Strength Of Hoover Dam

LAS VEGAS, Nev.—(AP)—Into the Hoover dam will go more cement than has been used in all the dams previously constructed by the bureau of reclamation in the 26 years of its existence.

But the factor of safety will not be sacrificed to size.

This reassurance comes from workers in a little adobe building, restored from the remains of an old Mormon fort, just north of Las Vegas.

Here the Bureau of Reclamation maintains a testing laboratory, and the ingredients that are to go into the greatest mass concrete job the world has known are examined both separately and in their exact mixture.

For two years a small force of experts has been conducting the tests, working under Walker R. Young, resident engineer of the Boulder project and designer of Arrowrock dam, until lately the highest in the world.

Young, with Assistant Engineer O. G. Futch and his assistant, Douglas Wood, have been using thousands of cylinders of concrete, made from various sands and gravels located by government or private prospectors, to determine exactly what will be the breaking strain of the actual materials that go into the dam.

The various materials, properly mixed, must prove a strength of 2,500 pounds per square inch to win approval for a place in the huge barrier that will back up the waters of the Colorado for a distance of 115 miles.

A total of 3,400,000 cubic yards of concrete will be poured into the dam, and another million yards will be required for the power plant and other works. This means a total of 5,500,000 barrels of cement. In its quarter century of construction work the bureau has used in all prior projects combined, only 4,926,000 barrels of this material.

Work on River Now Protects Fort Smith

FORT SMITH, Ark.—(AP)—The Arkansas river at Braden Bend is no longer a menace to the city of Fort Smith, the State of Oklahoma and the Kansas City Southern Railroad.

A recent rise of the river provided a test of the new $100,000 revetment which satisfied city officials there was no further danger from the stream.

Youth Is Killed Trying to Board Freight Train

MALVERN, Ark.—(AP)—Elmer Apshier, 17, a son of Edward A. Apshier of Detroit, Mich., was fatally injured here early Wednesday in attempting to board a freight train.

He was thrown under the train. He lived 45 minutes after the accident and gave his name and address.

Charges Against Judge Asked Dropped by House

AUSTIN, Texas.—(AP)—Charges of official negligence and misconduct against J. B. Price of Bastrop, judge of the 21st district court, will be dropped and the actions of the judge deplored and condemned under a resolution prepared for presentation to the house late Wednesday. Members of the legislative investigating committee said Judge Price had agreed to the procedure and had admitted his fault.

Texas Youth, 18, Held for Shooting of Uncle

CARTHAGE, Tex.—(AP)—Thurman Tidwell, 18, was held in the Panola county jail Tuesday night under a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of his uncle, Alvin Pierce, 46, March 11.

Officers said the youth made a statement Tuesday.

A verdict of accidental death was returned at the time Pierce was slain. Pierce's shot riddled body was found hanging in a wire fence.

The case is expected to be presented to the grand jury which convenes September 1.

Dallas Newsboy Hunted After Strange Absence

ABILENE, Texas.—(AP)—Officers here and at Dallas have been asked to aid in the search for J. J. Self, Jr., 11-year-old Dallas newsboy, who disappeared Saturday from the farm home of his aunt, Mrs. O. C. Gilbreath, at Hawley, near here, where the boy and his mother had been visiting.

The youngster, described as small for his age, dark haired, blue eyed and freckled, left the Gilbreath home Saturday morning, and was seen by a neighbor in Abilene that afternoon. Since then nothing has been heard of him. He was wearing blue overalls, light blue shirt, and black oxfords. Relatives said they could assign no cause for his disappearance.

Mississippi Negro Hunted for Attack

PRENTISS, Miss.—(AP)—Sheriff V. L. Terrell of Jefferson Davis county and a posse of citizens sought Will Payne, 25-year-old negro, following an alleged attack Wednesday upon a 13-year-old girl at her father's farm in the Glen community of Jefferson Davis county.

The sheriff's office reported the girl was attacked while doing her chores on the farm.

Her outcries attracted the attention of the father. He was reported to have returned with a shotgun and slightly wounded the negro, who escaped.
